1.0 Company Background

2.0 Problem Statement

Since the opening of our Brew Haven Café, we noticed there are several problems on behalf of the customers and the staffs. The problem mainly occurs while the customers is making an order.

One of the problems is that it is difficult for our staff to remember the customer's order information. There are many customers that they need to be taking orders from hence, there will be higher possibility the staff will make mistakes where they tend to forget certain orders or mixed up the customer's order. If this problem continues, this will give our company a bad reputation due to its poor service towards the customers.

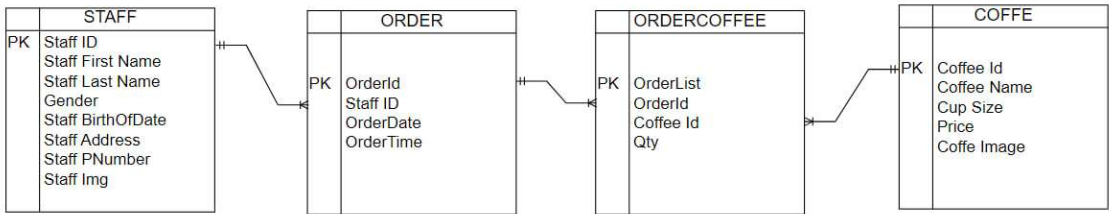

The next problem is that since the customers can choose their own drinks based on their preferences, they can customize their drinks. All the 'add on' choices can lead to mistakes while calculating the total of the drinks that are ordered by the staff manually since we do not have a proper system for taking orders. As a result, this might leave the customers angry because they might need to pay more than what they have ordered, or it will result in our company's loss because some customers may need to pay cheaper than what they have ordered.

Other than that, it is also more time-consuming when customers order their menu at the counter. This is because our staff needs to key in the orders one by one and sometimes, the customer might decide to change their menu in the middle of the ordering process. This will be a burden for our staff as they will need to handle a lot of things.

3.0 Objective

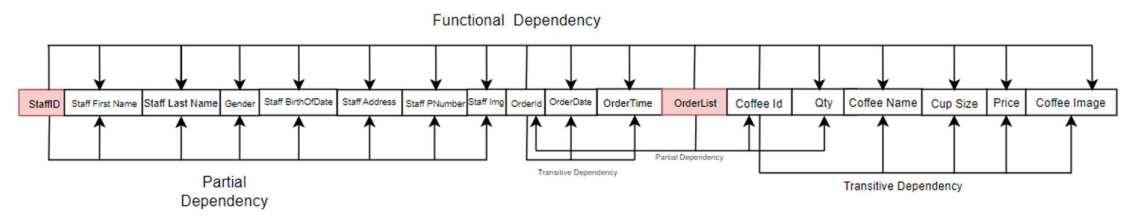

- i. To keep the list of customers' order information more organized, so the order will not be messed up.
- ii. To design an ordering database system for the coffee shop that will be able to calculate and display the total cost accurately, which can reduce human error made by our staff.
- iii. To prevent a time-consuming ordering system by letting staff key in the customer's order digitally rather than jotting the order down in notes.
